Mutual Master Picture, The Outlaw, in Four Reels, Featuring Mae Marsh. The Outlaw, a four reel Mutual mas-ter picture, will be shown at the Davis Monday and Tuesday. Mexico—the land of revolution—of fierce love and

and of revolution—of fierce love and fiercer hate—is the scene of this thrilling romance of real life in that wonderful region below the Rio Grande. Through the rapidly shifting pictures—punctuated with hair-raising incident—there moves the masterful figure of The Outiaw, a fine soldierly type, for the play is drawn from a tragedy in the early life of a famous Mexican general when he was chief of a band that formed the beginning of the rebel army. There is much that is grim and tense in this splendid picture story—but it is softened by little touches of entiment that give it added interest and charm. There are tremendous and charm. There are tremendous battle scenes with real Mexican soldiers, and the stirring events that had to do with the dawn of a new republic are pictured with startling vividness, for they were not only taken in Mexico but the cameraman actually risked his life on the firing line that he might get some real scenes of terrific

The vaudeville attraction for Monday is The Information Bureau, presented by the Five Sullys, a combination of singing, dancing, talking, gymnastic and comedy situations happily blended into a 20-minute rapid fire offering. The service will be ample and auto and motorevels parties from at least a a railway terminal. Three of the Sullys are men and two women. Each is an adept in his or her particular line of endeavor. The theme of the clever lit-tle farce is the continual mishaps that confront two young fellows who made engagements with a young woman they had never met before to meet at the terminal station. Each leaves it to a boy at the information desk to help find their particular young woman. The mistakes that arise keep the audience in roars of laughter. The Five Sullys are indeed a whole vaudeville programme by themselves. The Mutual War Weekly and a funny Keystone comedy completes the shew. Don't miss the big show today of vaudeville and pictures, the best show in town. Matinee at 2.30, all seats 10 cents, children 5 cents. Evening at 7 and 8.45, 10, 15 and 20 cents. Order seats now.

of the most astounding tales of the great motion picture world of the day is the one at the Colonia Itheatre today, entitled A Theft in the Dark, featuring Miriam Nesbit. This is one of those profound mystery dramas in which the theft takes place in the dark, almost everyone is accused, and then the blame falls on the one the least suspected. Miriam Nesbit, the delightrted. Miriam Nesbit, the delight-aracter creator of the big Edison cast, was never seen in a stronger part and there are countless thrills, magnificent scenery end supreme acting. AT THE AUDITORIUM.

The Girl from Shanley's, a musical The Girl from Shanley's, a musical comedy extravaganza in two acts, presented by Joe Weston and company of 14 people, will be seen here at all three shows today for the last time. It is one of the best shows the Auditorium has run during the past year and is drawing big houses at every performance. Much good comedy runs through the entire piece, as well as many fine singing and dencing numbers. The chorus of six dashing girls is particularly well costumed for the different numbers, and they work well together, introducing several neat specialties. On the pleture programme today King Baggott will be seen in the two reel film masterplece A Life in the Balance, and the Animated Weekly will also be shown.

NEW MOTORCYCLISTS Unusual Interest in the Big Programme at Fairgrounds This After-

Everything is in shape for the combination races of the Connecticut Amusement association on the fairground track this afternoon. The first race is to be called at 1.45 on the dot. There will be at least half a dozen fast ones in the 2.20, a $300 class, and as many more in the 2.30, for which the purse is $200. As for the running race in half-mile heats, these is, on the whole, at least as much interest in this as there was in last year's similar contest. Bennie last year's similar contest. Bennie Bourbon, last year's winner, will meet Gibb, J. C. Atterbury'h horse from this city; Ginger, owned by William Dart of New London; and Rocco, entered by Chafles E. Woodmansee of Preston City. The 1914 running race was full of fun and frolio for the crowd though Bennie went away from the bunch seasily in all three beats. Bennie went away from the bunch easily in all three heats. This time, it is understood, there are two horses on the list that will make Bennie hustle the whole half mile.

Greek-American Current Trade. It appears from reports reaching the Patras consulate that American the Patras consulate that American importers of Greek currants were not in every case satisfied with the quality of the fruit they received during the past season, not a little rain-damaged and otherwise low-grade fruit having found its way to the United States. It is not improbable that the fault lies partly with the American importers, who in the past have placed orders mostly for the lower grades of currants, writes Consul A. B. Cooke. Perhaps three-fourths of the currants shipped to the United States are of the lowest five grades of a total of the lowest five grades of a total of eighteen offered. So long as this practice continues it is almost inevitagie that a fair percentage of the fruit received will be more or less unsatisfactory.

gie that a fair percentage of the fruit received will be more or less unsatisfactory.

It should be said, however, that there is a growing tendency to place orders for the better grades of fruit. During the past season some fairly large shipments of "Patras," "Gulf," and "Vistizza" grades were made to the United States. The coming season, which thus far promises a good harvest, may offer American firms an unusual opportunity to secure stocks of the better kinds. The United Kingdom, which in normal times takes the bulk of these grades, and Holland and Germany, which claim their share, may not in the coming season present such active markets. There are many responsible export firms in Patras that will no doubt be in position to furnish shipments of the better grades of currants, provided orders are placed befor such stocks are exhausted Sample Each Free by Mail With 32-p. with the war waves all around us, with some who would like to blow us up And some who would like to grind But the flag is there and the nation's all right,
However some want to knock it:
